Covid-19—What Extra Help Can You Get?

◆ New Covid Spring Hardship Payment

The Scottish Government has announced a new payment of £100 called the Covid Spring Hardship Payment which follows on from the Covid Winter Hardship Payment (delivered over Christmas). It will be paid to low-income families and delivered at the same time as free school meals during the Easter holidays.

Although the payment will be made automatically to eligible families, you must make sure that the Council have the correct bank details for you. If you only receive free school meals because your child is in P1 to P3, you will not qualify for this new payment, unless you are assessed as having a low income. If this applies to you, you may need to request this income assessment. You can email the Council at: school.grants@edinburgh.gov.uk

◆ Extended Furlough Scheme (CJRS)

The furlough scheme or Coronavirus Job Retention Scheme (CJRS) will be extended until the end of September 2021 and will continue to provide 80% of furloughed employees' wages for hours not worked up to the £2,500 monthly limit.

Contact your employer to discuss eligibility.

◆ Working Tax Credits

Working tax credits claimants who have been furloughed, or experience a temporary reduction in their working hours as a result of Covid-19, will continue to be treated as working their normal hours for the duration of the furlough scheme. This means that their tax credits will continue as normal.

◆ Extended Scheme for the self-employed

Two new grants will be provided to eligible self-employed workers as part of the SEISS (Self-Employment Income Support Scheme). The fourth grant will cover the three-month period from 1 February 2021 to 30 April 2021, and a new fifth grant covering May to September 2021.

People who have filed a tax return for the financial year 2019/2020 will qualify for the fourth grant. The amount of the fourth grant will remain at 80% of 3 months' average monthly trading profits, capped at £7,500.

The fifth grant amount will be calculated at 80% of the last 3 months' trading profits if the self-employed person's turnover has reduced by more than 30% in the year April 2020 to April 2021. Those whose turnover has reduced by less than 30% in the last financial year will receive 30% of their average trading profits.

In Summary

COVID Spring Hardship Payment	A one-off payment of £100 with your school meal payments at Easter
Furlough Scheme (CJRS)	80% of furloughed employees' wages for the hours not worked up to £2,500 per month + Working Tax Credits will continue as normal.
SEISS Scheme (self-employed)	A fourth grant for period 1 February 2021 to 30 April 2021, at 80% of 3 months' average monthly trading profits, capped at £7,500. A fifth grant for period May to September 2021, at 80% of your profits if your turnover has reduced by more than 30% in the last financial year or a grant of 30% of your profits otherwise.

Covid-19—Housing News

The Tenant Hardship Fund

The Tenant Hardship Loan Fund will continue to receive applications beyond the original deadline of 31 March 2021. This is a Scottish Government Scheme providing interest-free loans for private or social tenants to avoid evictions. Tenants may apply for help with rent arrears accrued since 01 January 2020, or may use the loan to pay up to 3 months of future rent payments.

To be eligible, you need to have explored other forms of funding first, i.e., Universal Credit or Housing Benefit or Discretionary Housing Payments (DHP)*. You also need to pass an affordability check and a credit check. The applicant's landlord or letting agent will be contacted to confirm the level of any arrears.

Loan repayments will be deferred for 6 months following payment of the loan, but the loan must be repaid within 60 monthly instalments.

Apply at: <https://tenanthardshiploan.est.org.uk>

NOTE: * Discretionary Housing Payments are additional payments you can apply for to help with rent shortfalls that are not covered by Housing Benefit or Universal Credit. The amount awarded depends on your financial needs and the Council's funds at the time of the application. Apply on the Council's website or ask us for advice!

Eviction Grounds and Notice Periods

The Scottish Government is extending most provisions from the Coronavirus (Scotland) Act 2020 until 30th September 2021 to protect social and private tenants.

—> Extending notice periods

All landlords need to give their tenants notice (a period of time) before ending their tenancy. The 2020 Act temporarily extends most notice periods by up to 6 months—although it remains one month/28 days in case of antisocial and criminal behaviour.

—> Grounds for eviction

To end a tenancy, landlords also need valid grounds (or reasons). The Act makes all grounds for eviction in the private rented sector discretionary. A landlord needs to get an eviction order from the First-Tier Tribunal (Housing and Property Chamber) before being able to evict a tenant. In the past, some eviction grounds were mandatory—the Tribunal was compelled to grant an eviction order if certain grounds were met. Now, the Tribunal can use its discretion in all eviction cases and decide if it is reasonable to evict a tenant based on all the circumstances of the case.

—> Additional requirements to comply with before evicting a private tenant.

The Act has made it compulsory for private landlords to comply with 'pre-action requirements' before an eviction can be considered 'reasonable' by a Tribunal. Private landlords must now make efforts to work with tenants to manage rent arrears, for example, by providing tenants with information about their rights and details of free and independent sources of debt help and advice. This was already the case for social tenancies but has now been extended to private tenancies until 31 September, although the Scottish Government is considering making this change permanent.

Ban on Eviction Enforcement

Evictions are still possible, as long as the above requirements are met. However, there is a current ban on eviction enforcement in areas subject to level 3 or 4 restrictions until 31 March 2021. Sheriff officers cannot remove a household from a property, after a court or Tribunal order has been made, except for cases of serious antisocial or criminal behaviour, or domestic abuse.

The first benefit to be implemented, the Child Disability Payment, will be rolled out by autumn 2021. More details soon.

The UK Budget & Your Benefits

The Weekly Benefit Uplift

The Universal Credit £20 per week uplift has been extended for 6 months until October 2021. This means that Universal Credit claimants will continue to get an additional £20 per week. This will be automatic, so you do not need to claim it.

The uplift does not apply to any other means-tested benefits, with the exception of Working Tax Credits claimants who will automatically receive a one-off payment of £500 by 23 April 2021.

Eligible tax credits claimants will include those who, on 2 March 2021, receive working tax credit payments; both working tax credit and child tax credit payments; or child tax credit payments where they are eligible for working tax credit but do not get a payment because their income is too high.

Universal Credit: Debt Recovery Changes

The rules related to debt recovery under Universal Credit have changed. From April 2021, Universal Credit advances will now be recovered over 24 months. In practice, your direct deductions may reduce significantly as you will have more time to repay the advance—i.e., up to 2 years instead of 1.

In addition, the maximum rate at which deductions can be made from a Universal Credit award will reduce from 30% to 25% of the standard allowance. The standard allowance is the basic benefit rate that you receive before any additional elements like the child element or carer element are added to your award. For example, a single person will only ever get a maximum of 25% of their standard allowance (£409.89) deducted to repay debts—which comes to £102.47 per month.

Money Advice News In Brief

POST OFFICE CARD ACCOUNTS CLOSING

The Post Office card (POca) service is closing! If you get your State Pension or benefit payments paid into a Post Office card account, you need to phone the POca Customer Service Centre, on 0800 085 7133, to provide alternative bank account details. For anyone who is unable to open a bank account or provide new account details, a payment exception service will be available. If you don't have a bank account, you can set up a basic bank account, with no credit facility, at most high street banks. More details here:
